

What can be done to improve your community's access to healthy food choices? What are lessons learned from Growing Power's success working with youth and community members in urban settings? How can policy makers, program staff, and advocates apply the insights and perspectives of Growing Power? Hear from a leader of the Illinois Local & Organic Food & Farm Task Force who is working to improve access to healthy food and develop local economies.

The Cook County Department of Public Health and the partners of the Cook County WePLAN community health improvement process invite you to a presentation by

Erika Allen

Chicago Projects Manager, Growing Power, Inc.
